

55/99.POULTRY SHOW.

Birds of every kind of feather flock together at Olympia for the National Poultry Show. No wonder she looks worried, so near to Christmas! These are the lucky ones - they'll miss this year's round-up anyway. As for this chap, he's a Head cert for somebody's oven.

This year's show has the biggest-ever display for table poultry, including for the first time oven-ready carcasses, many of them plucked on the spot.

Looks easy, doesn't it? But this way's still easier.

And here's how hundreds of the entries end up, at the biggest indoor barbecues ever held in this country.

All right, sir?
