MONTE CARLO RALLY.

The toughest test of cars and drivers in the world - the Monte Carlo Rally - draws to its close as nearly 300 entries converge on the Riviera from the seven starting points scattered all over Europe. Snow and ice are a constant hazard on long stretches of the 2,500 mile journey. Here comes No.189, Reece and Davis's Ford Anglia.

Fatigue is the driver's worst enemy, but the crews battle gamely on. Here's Jaguar No.164, driven by Ronald Adams, with Frank Biggar and Derek Johnstone as crew. And as the crews pour into Monte Carlo, and the points are added up, after the final mountain test, the victory goes to this skillful trio - the second British win since the war. Fine driving in a fine car!
