

2-820F01
56/32.

GALA FOR GRACE KELLY.

What journalists have nicknamed "The Monte Kelley Rally" nearly becomes a photographers' riot as guests arrive at Monaco's Sporting Club for a gala staged in honour of Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier. Here's the Aga Khan, accompanied by the Begum. Our cameraman is one of the few lucky enough to be inside. Hundreds of others wait for hours in the pouring rain, and when Grace and the Prince do arrive, they get only the briefest glimpses for their pains.

Inside the Club, all is calm and dignity. Monaco's pint-sized army is on guard as Rainier escorts his princess-to-be.

Outside, angry photographers tell the policemen's fortunes, in words of one syllable.

Meet Mr. Kelly - one man who'll be glad when it's all over.

The guests are seated and the show starts, ignoring the battle in the street. But later, Grace puts her foot down - she's faced more cameras than all Monaco's ruling family put together, so she tells the Prince how it ought to be done. Next day, everything runs a lot more smoothly. After all, to organise a show like this takes show business experience!