MOYANA SINKS.

Disaster follows triumph for the Moyana, winner of the Torbay-to-Lisbon race. In the teeth of a gale, The Clan Maclean takes her boy crew off the sinking ketch and brings them into Fowey River. Their average age is 16½; all are students of the Southampton Navigation School; many have never been to sea before. Yet they sailed their craft to victory, and when she went down a few miles from home, they bore themselves like veterans. Welcome home to a gallant crew!
