MISS NEW BRIGHTON.

At New Brighton Bathing Pool, nineteen shapely hopefuls parade for the title Miss New Brighton 1956 before judges David Southwood, Eunice Gayson, and Stanley Baker. Here's one of last year's finalists - Barbara Smith of Walthamstow, a nineteen-year old model.

While the connoisseurs prepare to disagree with the verdict, whatever it may be, the judges are trying to decide if they can agree which is the cream of the cream.

Maureen Bradley, perhaps? No, it's Marion Lewis - and apparently the connoisseurs approve after all. Eunice Gayson gives the winner a cheque for £200 to go with the silver cup, and Stanley Baker presents the Miss New Brighton Ash. Marion's a sight to open anyone's eyes - well almost anyone's - she comes from the Isles of Man, works in London - and 36, 26, 38, isn't her telephone number!
