SAM GOLDWYN ARRIVES:

Sam Goldwyn and his wife arrive at London Airport on a visit to England. He is one of the outstanding personalities of the film industry, in building which he has played so great a part. Commenting on competitive forms of entertainment he is as full of confidence today at 74, as he was when he entered the industry nearly half a century ago.

Question: "Mr. Goldwyn, as a senior and one of the most successful members of the motion picture industry what do you say in answer to the rumours, problems, and difficulties which appear to beset the cinema industry today?"

Answer: "Greater than ever! The only difference is that people will not see the bad films. They can see them at home on the television for nothing!"
