

"GUYS AND DOLLS" PREMIERE.

At the London premiere of the American screen musical "Guys and Dolls", Jean Pierre Aumont and his wife Mariasa Pavan are among the first stars to arrive. Like most great clowns, Norman Wisdom just can't help doing his stuff wherever he is. And here comes that grand old veteran Charles Coburn.

Somebody's arriving the crowd simply must have a look at - Swedish star Anita Ekberg with her English husband Anthony Steel - How did she ever get nicknamed "The Iceberg"?

The great and the glamorous are gathering in the theatre foyer - here are Herbert Wilcox and his wife Anna Neagle - and another family group - John Mills and his wife and daughter.

Benny Hill seems to find buying a programme hot work. And there's Mr. and Mrs. Richard Todd.

Kenneth Moore arrives. Tonight's premiere is presented by the Variety Club of Great Britain, whose Chief Barker, Nat Cohen, welcomes the Lord Mayor of London. That almost legendary figure of film business, Sam Goldwyn, accompanies Field-Marshal Earl Montgomery.

Mrs. Goldwyn is here too, and so is Douglas Fairbanks, supporting the Variety Club's biggest-ever film show in aid of children's charities.
