

THE QUADS COME OF AGE.

It's a great day in the Miles home at St. Neots - the coming-of-age of the famous quads. Here is Ann -

Ernest -

Michael -

And Paul. They're celebrating their 21st birthday by looking at photographs of the days when they were one of the best-known families in England. But fame didn't go to their heads - they've grown up into four very normal, and very likeable, young people, all with different jobs. Ann Miles serves in a chemists shop.

Ernest Miles is a mechanic at a local garage - where brother Michael works in the spare parts store.

All the quads have been practical minds - the third brother, Paul is a gifted model-maker and woodcarver. At the moment, he's on leave from the R.A.F.

Happy birthday to a family, who, even when they're miles apart, are always four Miles together!
