

2-144501

56/92.

CYPRUS PETROL QUEUES.

You're fed up with queuing? You think life is hell?
Don't worry - it's happening in Cyprus as well.
You're tired of low-towing, and being polite
To garage attendants who hate you on sight?
For a change, why not try it the Cypriot way-
It's easy - whatever you're thinking - you say?

There's one big advantage - whoever's to blame
You can call him by every unprintable name
Twice over - as long as you've breath left to speak -
The first time in English - the second - in Greek.
And even the copper must wait for his juice
While the customers heap unrelenting abuse
On the wretched attendant - insulting, with glee,
His behaviour, his habits, and his family tree.
Who'd work in a garage? It's worse than a shop!
And now that you mention it - who'd be a cop?