

TATIANA FLIES HOME.

Baby Tatiana leaves for New York with her mother, after a custody battle which started on board the Russian liner Vyacheslav Moletov at Surrey Dock. Tatiana's father, Alexis Chvostov, was ordered to bring her ashore; for a few hours the ship sailed for Russia Tatiana had been declared a ward of the High Court until the question of her custody was settled. A sad moment for Alexis; but it was one of those cases where somebody had to be disappointed. The Court restored Tatiana to her mother, Mrs. Elena Blazsek, deciding that this would be in the child's best interests.

So it's a jubilant mother who carries Tatiana into the westbound airliner. Tatiana will grow up an American citizen - by the decision of a British court.
