

GOLDEN GLOVES.

American lightweight novices battle it out in the Golden Gloves contest at Long Island - and what these amateurs lack in skill they certainly make up for in spirit. Here's Ian Watson trying to knock Art Jones through the ropes.

Watson has the right idea, but he slips up on it somewhere.

He's up again - he's going in again - and Jones is down again. Watson wins on a technical knock-out.

Now it's Greg Bouchard and Carlos Rodriguez, mixing it good and hard. Bouchard lands a beauty, but Rodriguez gives punch for punch.

Bouchard pins his man against the ropes. He's plenty tough, this Rodriguez - but he can't go on taking it for ever. Bouchard is waiting his chance, and the end is coming fast for Rodriguez.

One on the point - and he's down and definitely out!