MOSCOW WELCOMES ATHLETES.

Families, friends and sports fans gather outside Yaroslav Railway Station in Moscow to give Russia's Olympic team a heroes' welcome home; from the sunshine of Melbourne to the snows of Moscow. The Russian athletes have brought back 98 medals from the Sixteenth Olympiad, 37 of them gold ones, so the crowds reckon there's something to cheer about. With the Russian athletes are members of other East European teams, visiting Moscow on their way home.

Vladimir Kuts, winner of two gold medals for long-distance running, thanks the crowds for their welcome on behalf of the team. We read a lot about the expert of Moscow gold - but it looks as though the imports are getting just as dangerous!
