PRINCESS CAROLINE CHRISTENED.

Monaco has had quite a few Great days recently - and now it's celebrating another. Up the steps of the ornate Cathedral of Monaco walk Prince Rainier and Princess Grace, for the christening of the heiress to the throne of the pocket Mediterranean state, six-week-old Princess Caroline. Ten-year-old Margaret Davis of Philadelphia on the right, Princess Grace's niece, stands godmother, and Hungarian-born Prince Georges Festetics is godfather.

The baby princess wears the organdie dress in which her father was christened, nearly 34 years ago, in this same cathedral.

A thousand guests make up the congregation - but that's nothing to the crowds of Monegasques who gather outside the palace for a glimpse of their newly-christened Princess Caroline!
