Many a little makes a.....guide-dog. Length: 59 M.

Pupils of an elementary school in Amsterdam gathered during one year old newspapers.

Each week they went with heavy loaded prams to the buyer-up.

For the money which the children receive for the old newspapers, the school intends to buy a guide-dog.

The stock of papers became greater and so too the money in the school-pet.

At last the 350 guilders were there and one day the pupils of the school went to another school in Amsterdam, the Guide-dog School.

With their own eyes the children saw how much a dog must learn before he is able to guide a blind man or woman.

It was not so easy to make a choice, but finally this beautiful Alsatian was the dog the children chose as a reliable and faithful guide-dog.
