

BRITAIN'S MOTO-CROSS VICTORY:

Britain's Leslie Archer is a hot favourite in the International Moto-Cross at St. Anthonis, Holland. There's a strong Swedish challenge - especially No.21, Gustafsson - but Archer, No.15, is full of confidence - not surprising, as he's won it twice before. Holland's hope is No.3, Jan Clynk.

The spectators seem to be taking more risks than the riders - but in spite of some hair-raising moments - no one comes to any harm. Another Briton doing well is Smith No.18 - he's ahead of Leslie Archer at the moment, but Archer's biding his time.

Nearing end, and the pace is hotting up. The Dutch are putting up a strong bid for a home victory - there's Salling, No.14, and there's Jan Clynk, but his bike is giving trouble.

And in the final stretch it's Archer pulling away from the field - to cross the line ahead of Gustafsson and Nilsson of Sweden. So he brings the victor's laurels back to Britain for the third time - nice riding, Leslie!
