

VETERAN CAR RALLY - GERMANY,

Cars from many parts of Europe and America line up for a Veteran Car Rally, which looks the equivalent to our own "London-to-Brighton" rally. People turn out by the thousand in the neighbouring countryside, to watch the start of the race, for a veteran car rally is an important event, and a big "send-off" puts the drivers and their travelling companions in good spirits, for the test ahead of both man and machine...

Of course, these cars were capable of great things in their day, and still are, but sometimes they need a little persuading! That's right, sir, you'll get her going in a minute - she just needs a little coaxing...

But in spite of hitches on the route, all cars arrive safely at the finish - and who wouldn't mind pushing some of the way when there's a bottle of champagne at the end of it!

P.S. When this shipment arrived here, there was no dope - so I had to provide something for the benefit of the Customs people - I wouldn't swear to the accuracy of the first line.....

The Hamburg Rally (Hamburg to Travemund on the Baltic Coast). 78 entrants from various countries, inc. Britain, Norway, Belgium, Holland, Sweden.
