RAE JOHNSTONE RETIRES;

Rae Johnstone one of the most outstanding jockeys in recent years will probably race no more. Our cameraman finds him spending the first few days of his retirement in Paris, the city which helped to make him famous - for in 25 years he has ridden more than 1,400 winners in France. His international score included three English Derbys and 30 classics in England, France and Ireland; altogether, more than 2,000 winners in nine countries since he was a star apprentice in Sydney. The French call Rae the Crocodile - because he waits behind and then gobbles up the opposition. Good luck, Rae, and a long and happy retirement.
