

ITALIAN MOTO-CROSS.

Motor-cycles stars of many nations compete in the International Moto-Cross at Cingoli in Italy. It's as tough as test of riding ability as anyone could devise - not to mention sheer strength, for you need muscles to hold a heavy bike on a course like this. But the experts are just as interested to see how the machines - Italian, French, and British - stand up to an hour and a half of relentless battering.

Here comes Swiss rider Couraged, making excellent time on a a B.S.A. There are three trials in all, and victory will go to the man with the lowest total time.

And it's Louis Couraged of Switzerland who wins, with a Frenchman second - both on British machines!
