VOLCANO ERUPTS IN ATLANTIC!

This is the world's newest volcano - seen still in its birth pangs. The unheralded geyser of smoke and lava spouts out of the Atlantic Ocean a quarter of a mile from one of the islands in the Azores. An Air Force cameraman is present to record this spectacular eruption.

A cone of lava rises around the volcano's mouth. Here it already is 40 feet high, 700 feet long.

Old mother earth blows her top - and it's quite a sight.
