THE DUKE IN NORTH WALES:

At Point of Ayr, the Duke of Edinburgh tours the Wales Gas Board's Methane Reforming Plant - the first of its kind in the world. The methane comes from Point of Ayr colliery. To miners, it is deadly poison - so they pump it out. To gas engineers, it is a high-grade fuel - so they pump it in. At Cae Glas-y-Nwr, by the Menai Straits, the Duke officially inaugurates the North Wales Gas Grid - 180 miles of high-pressure pipeless. He also visits Llanfairpwll - Llanfairpwllgwyn - Llanfair.... Perhaps you'd better read it yourself.

After all that, "H.M.S. Indefatigable" is really easy!
