WHALE OF A WHALE!

Bubbles - the star of California's Marineland - is learning so fast it's making her head spin. But she's a very special pupil - for Bubbles is the only whale in captivity. Let's have that a bit slower.

Captured last February, she's as friendly as they come. In spite of her sharp teeth, she won't bite the hand that feeds her. All she wants is half a hundredweight of squid a day, and you can keep your fingers.

Thirteen feet of watery mammal, turning the scales (if you can get her on 'em) at nearly three-quarters of a ton, Bubbles is a whale of a whale. She's getting to know all the best people, of course. After all, she's a whale with a position to maintain - even if she never seems to meet anyone quite her own class.
