YARN ABOUT A
WHALE MAKES NEWS!

Bubbles - the star of California's Marineland - is learning so fast it's making her head spin. Bubbles is perhaps the world's most distinctive student - for she's the only whale in captivity.

Captured last February, the 13-foot mammal goes for a tasty morsel. That's 1600 pounds making like a ballerina.

The growing pilot whale has a big mouth, pointed teeth and an appetite sharp enough to eat 60 pounds of squid a day. But a disposition so friendly a trainer can do this ---

No doubt about it, there's a little history-in-the-making here. The world's first whale to see a wave - and then wave right back. Playful Bubbles is a whale of a whale.
