"PRODESIAN SPORATCH" NO. 60.

THE PATA PERATURA

The Prime Minister held numerous informal discussions in Myssaland to explain the implications of the Federal Pranchise Act. He not a group of Africans in the Ransay Hall in Ministyre and readily answered incompreble questions. Returning to the Ransay Hall later he addressed leading members of the Asian comunity, and slarified many of the points put to him, particularly by Mr. Secretic who is a barrister and President of the Asian Convention.

Marepeans were addressed in a Linke Tobacce Austian Mart. It seems cortain that many were a great deal improved by what he had to say. At political mostings and at informal gatherings he explained the government's viewpoint with tireless energy and coiless patience. Soldem has a Prime Minister been at such paints to gain similar approval and sweep anny misunforstandings. No question was left unanaword.

During his stay at Lilangue he visited the estate of Nyale a master farmer and outstanding business man who began farming with a few acres, and now has 115 acres under full mechanisation, yielding about #2,000 a year. Where was little funs related about the P.M.'s visit - if there was a flap on it was the ducks who were flapping.

NEW BRIDGE TO INYANGA.

Mr. G. Eliman Brown, Minister of Boads accepts a new bridge over the Odyani River from the contrasters. It is named after Mr. Estcourt Palmer, con of a pioneer in the Eastern Districts, and is opened by his wife. The new Estcourt Palmer Bridge is on the road from Untali to Inyanga and makes for easier year-round access to a popular heliday resort.

THE VISIT OF EARL HOME.

Argiving at the Prime Minister's office in Salisbury is the British Secretary for Commenwealth Relations, Lord Home. He was in the Federation for three weeks. Among matters discussed with the P.M. was Dominion status. Lord Home presented a stone from the fabric of the Palace of Westainster, to the Speaker of the Federal Assembly. He hoped it would be a link between the two countries and the two parliaments.

For the Countons Home a special outing was arranged on Lake McIlwaine - a tour of the Lake in the Warden's launch. It is perhaps symbolic of Central Africanthat this molern man made stretch of water is the site of some Mushman paintings dating back possibly to Prehistoric times.

Visiting the University, Lord and Lady Home took a keen interest in a great Institution of which the Queen Nother laid the foundation stone and is noted Chancellor. Education on all levels must play a tremendous part in the future of the Federation and its relationship with the rest of the Commonwealth.

One of the places visited by the Secretary for Commonwealth Selations was Livingstone, where a civic reception awaited them. New places are more likely to fire the imagination, for here the memory of the great Missionary and Explorer still lives, and the thunderous Falls he named after his Queen casede down in perpetual splendour.

Flying morth, Lord and Lady Home were met in Lusaka by Sir Arthur and Lady Benson and a number of prominent people. It was in Lusaka that he visited the Gilbert Rennie School named after a previous Governor of Northern Rhodesia.

Sir Robert Armitage was waiting to extend Nyasaland's welcome at Blantyre Airport. The gist of many of Lord Heme's speeches was that racial understanding and goodwill are expehle of making the Federation a nation of gr at strength, if we step squabbling and get on with the job.

REALLY GOOD NEIGHBOURS.

To Estali's fine Courtauld Theatre, is now added the Queens Hall, a further example of the generosity of Major and Mrs. S.L. Courtauld. Given to the people of Untali the Queen's Hall will serve many cultural purposes, and incorporated numerous interesting features in its modern design and desar. Sir Roy and Lady Welensky came to Untali for the opening.

The Courtaulds settled just outside Untali in 1950. Great lovers of beauty they were largely responsible for establishing the Rhodes Centenary Art Callery in Salisbury. But in many ways Untali is deeply indebted to these two kindly people who came to stay.

Tonight the Queen's Hall is a blase of light, tonight it comes to life. Bathed in a soft glow the auditorium is packed. On the stage Sir Roy Welensky performs the opening, paying warmhearted tribute to Untall's benefactors. And as an expression of gratitude, for the first time in its history, Umtall bestows the freedom of the town upon Major and Mrs. Courtauld, an honour richly deserved and loudly acclaimed.

A FINE COMMENTY REPORT.

Salisbury's Mindus are now building a new Community Hell. Arriving to lay the founiation stone Sir Robert Tredgold was garlanded and greeted with a dance of welcome. This was performed by children of the Salisbury Highu School who scattered rose petals.

Mr. J.B. Patel said the new Community Hall would cost 50 thousand pounds, 30 thousand of which had already been collected. The Acting Governor Ceneral officially laid the stone. Then much as Europeans might break a bottle of Champagne, a Hindu Priest broke a coccoant over the stone. This was followed by a most charming traditional Indian dance, the dance of the Lights. The symbolic significance of the little candles is that the new Hall will lighten and brighten the way to the greater culture and knowledge of Salisbury's Indian Community.

H.R. THE GOVERNOR GENERAL ARRIVES.

Arriving in Salisbury as the successor to the late Lord Llewellin is the new Governor General of the Federation, Lord Dalhousie. There was a large crowd present as Lord Dalhousie, as representative of Her Majesty, preceded Lady Dalhousie down the gangway. Their first welcome on Rhodesian soil came from Sir Febert and Lady Tredgold.

Next Sir Roy and Lady Welensky were presented. Sir Roy had already met Lord Dalhousie in England prior to his appointment, and now offered cordial good wishes for a successful and pleasant term of office. Similar sentiments were expressed by Mr. Garfield Todd, Premier of Southern Rhodesia.

His Excellency was accorded a Guard of Honour, and following the inspection, he and Lady Dalhousie received dignitaries of the Government and the Church, representatives of Foreign and Commonwealth countries, and leading citizens of the Federation.

And so to the outskirts of Salisbury where the Mayor, Councillor L.J. Boshoff waited to extend the Capital's welcome - a welcome which many of the citizens extended personally.

Tracing his ancestry back to William the Conqueror, The Earl of Dalhousie is, at 42, the youngest Governor General in the Commonwealth. One of his ancestors was Governor General of India a hundred years ago. And so, reviving the old family tradition, he drove through the crowd lined streets of Salisbury on his way to Government House. A close friend of the Royal Family he will do much to strengthen the ties existing between the Federation and the Crown.

And so to Government House where the final stages of his arrival were completed with the searing in and the taking of the Oath of Allegiance.

Later Lord and Lady Dalhousie related in the garden with two of their five children, all of whom we have to most at some future date.
