SCOTLAND v. SWITZERLAND:

When Scotland's at home to Switzerland at Hampden Park - the prize is a ticket to Sweden for the final stages of the World Cup, so as the home team (in white shorts) launch their first attack, the 58,000 crowd are ready for plenty of excitement. But Swiss goalkeeper Parlier saves neatly, and clears upfield.

Back in the Scottish goal, Ballsman gives Tommy Younger a nasty moment. Bobby Evans returns it to the keeper.

At the Swiss end now - Collins to Robertsen, who cuts in and scores! Scotland are one up!

That's a good start - and now Scotland have another chance from a corner, but it hits the crossbar and Switzerland breathe again.

Soon after that, Riva shakes off Evans and scores the equaliser!

Swiss hopes rise again - and now Riva returns to the attack. He dodges Evans with a pass to Meir, who shoots - but Younger saves brilliantly!

Second half, and Scotland on the move - Collins to Alex Scott. Scott beats left half Schmeiter, and runs to flick the ball inside. Mudie shoots - and Scotland are one-up again!

Scotland keep up the pressure on the Swiss goal. Robertson receives, but Parlier's just too quick for him.

Back to the Scottish end - Ghissa's blocked by Tommy Younger. The ball goes loose, and there's a dangerous tussle in the goalmouth.

Right back Parker clears upfield. In a flash the ball's up the other end - and Alex Scott finds the net! An appeal for offside, but the ref says no.

Scotland do their best to add to their lead, and the Swiss goalkeeper works like a Trojan, fending off their attacks. Then with a few minutes left to go, a Swiss attack makes it 3-2. But that's all, and for Scotland, it's next stop Sweden!
