

DUKE AT AERONAUTICAL COLLEGE:

Lord Brabazon welcomes the Duke of Edinburgh when he visits the College of Aeronautical and Automobile Engineering in Chelsea. Young men of many races study here - these two are from Nigeria and Uganda, while at a nearby bench is a student from Hongkong.

Looking more like a doctor than an engineer is this lad from Singapore. Not all are from the Commonwealth; a Venezuelan works side by side with a student from Siam. The visit goes smoothly - but Prince Philip's amused to learn that before he arrived an alleged "bomb" was removed to Scotland Yard and turned out to be nothing more deadly than bits of broomstick. Looks as though students are much the same wherever they come from!
