

JUDY GRINHAM FILM STAR.

Judy Grinham was on the verge of the biggest decision of her life. She went to the studios, knowing that they might offer her a part in a film possibly a contract. In the Empire Games at Cardiff Judy won some of her many triumphs. She's a world record holder and is Olympic, European and Empire back-stroke champion.

While being glamorised at Elstree she pondered the great problem: Should she give up big-time swimming and go all out for a film career? What a terrific decision for a nineteen year old girl. She simply couldn't do both.

Now came the test before the searching eye of the camera. Not only that; she also had to sit for still photographs. And all the time there was the big question, swimming or films? Later on she was offered a part in "Girls in Arms". So she'll never again hear the crowd roar, but, says Judy, "You can't live on medals". May she win millions of new fans as a film star.
