

CAMERA : V.PARKASH, NEW DELHI.
 STORY : STREET SCENES OF DELHI.
 Location : Delhi & New Delhi.
 Date : 20th January 59
 Rawstock : ILFORD HP 3 Plus a small piece of Plus X towards the end of the roll.

Roll No. I.

Statue of Queen Victoria in the heart of Chandni Chowk ( Fampus street in old Delhi) is still an important land mark in busy street of Delhi.

Close up of the face of Queen Victoria.

Long Shot of the busy street of CHANDNI CHOWK. This famous street was built during the times of the Moghuls. Many people find it ~~xxxxxx~~ convenient to have a mid-day nap in the middle of the road on a small raised platform where an old time canon is also placed.

Another shot of traffic moving in the street.

~~xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx~~ For some it is convenient to get the ears cleaned while sitting in the middle of the thoroughfare. Two shots of a person getting his ear cleaned in the street.

Shot of another busy street in old Delhi 'KHARI BAOLI'. All sorts of traffic is seen passing including the freedom for holy cows.

Shot of a holy cow ~~lying~~ having a siesta on the busy pavement another cow stands nearby.

Another shot of the traffic moving in the street.

Shot of another street with a mosque in the background and a big line of people squatting on ground getting a shave or a hair cut.

2 Shots of getting a shave on the roadway.

Shot of famous land mark of New Delhi 'War Memorial' of Ist great War with letters INDIA inscribed on its top. The statue of George the V can be seen in the middle.

Shot of Secretariat Buildings in New Delhi which were built by the British between 1920 and 1931 when New Delhi was inaugurated.

-----
THE END.

b-F24761

CAMERA : V.PARKASH , NEW DELHI, INDIA.
STORY : THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH ARRIVES IN NEW DELHI.
LOCATION : AIRFORCE STATION NEW DELHI 21st JAN 59
CLOUDY DAY EXTERIORS 520 PLUS X 'B' 80 ft. Street scene in old Delhi.

---

India displayed rousing reception for the British when the Duke of Edinburgh arrived in New Delhi today. Except for the weather which was more of 'English weather' the reception was typically Indian. There was a big crowd which had travelled over 16 miles to reach the Palam Air Force Station and they patiently waited for over 2 hours for the arrival of the Comet IV which on account of the fog in Delhi, had been diverted to Agra. Long rows of children with flowers awaited anxiously the arrival of the plane and even Mr. Nehru, who received the distinguished guest was excited about this visit. Mr. Nehru appeared in his happiest mood and he had all the smiles as he walked with the Duke after he had received him coming down the plane.

As the Comet IV taxied through the flags which had been fixed on the tarmac, Mr. Nehru, Krishna Menon and the Mrs. Asafali, the Mayor of Delhi came forward to receive the Duke. After shaking hands with Mr. Nehru, the Duke was introduced to the Mayor of Delhi who garlanded the Duke. Later Mr. Nehru introduced his daughter Indira Gandhi to the Duke. There was a crowd of Government of India Ministers and the cameramen when the Duke and Mr. Nehru obliged the photographers.

The moment Duke arrived on the saluting Base, the Navy Band played 'GOD SAVE THE KING' After the salute, the Duke inspected the Guard of Honour which was formed by the Interservices wing of Army Navy & Airforce.

CONTINUED.....

The Duke was then introduced to the lined up diplomats. It was interesting to watch the Duke being garlanded by the City Fathers of the capitol of India. The were garlands after garlands and many a time the Duke asked in surprise 'Have you still many more' He was sorrounded by the children and each one of them was keen to offer his affections through the token of flowers and garlands. Several times he removed the garlands but very next moment he was again covered with flowers.

A big crowd awaited the arrival of the Duke in the city. The Police was finding it difficult to control the public. The mounted Police pushed the people behind. There was thich crowd through which the open car bringing the Duke and Mr. Nehru passed through Delhi and entered the President's House which was once the Viceroy's House. The British monograms 'GRI' are still ~~axikk~~ existing on the stone elephants which decorate the enterance to this great building where the Duke would stay in Delhi during his current visit.

-----

Roll. I.

Note: This roll was used in the begining but for the arrival scenes I used another roll. After the meeting with diplomats, I one again used this roll.

Several shots of children awaiting the arrival. They were holding garlands and flowers.

Shot of a small child with few flowers awaiting the arrival.

Shot of row of school children arriving with garlands which they were bringing for the Duke.

Shot of Nehru talking to City Fathers of Delhi who were holding garlands in their hands. Nehru was pointing towards the arrival of the plane and was telling that the delay has been due to the weather and the plane had to be diverted to Agra.

Shot of women waiting at the airport.

Shot of UK HIGH COMMISSIONER Sir. Malcolm Macdonald talking to 2 person prior to the arrival of the plane.

h-524801

Roll I Continued.....

Close up of the leader of the Band standing attention.

( Here I changed over the roll to No. 2 which includes the arrival scenes. Shots after this were taken when the Duke was meeting the diplomats.)

Several shots of the Duke meeting the diplomats. Shots of people crowding round the Duke and garlanding him. Several shots as he went round the typically Indian crowd and mixed with them and received flowers and garlands from them.

Several shots of the Duke when he met Indian and English children. Shot of the Duke talking to English children and then moving away. Shot of Duke surrounded by the Indian children who were garlanding him and offering him flowers. The Duke was covered with flowers and he had to take off the garlands.

Few more shots of the Duke going through the General Public.

-----

Shots in the street scene of Delhi near the Government Secretariat Offices. Large crowd waiting for the arrival of the Duke. Shot of people clapping.

Shot of Police controlling the big crowd. The mounted Police had to work hard to push back the crowd.

Several shots of the crowd being pushed.

Shot of steel gate of the President's House... pan to the stone Elephants fixed on the main entrance. They still bear the British insignia.

Roll No. 2.

Shot of the Comet IV taxiing through the flags which had been affixed at the Air Force Station, Palam.

Shot of the plane coming towards the camera.

Shot of Mr. Nehru, Krishna Menon, Mayor of Delhi Mrs. Asaf Ali and others coming forward to receive the Duke.

Shot of the Duke coming down the steps of the comet IV and being greeted by Mr. Nehru who then introduced the Duke to Krishna Menon, and Mrs. Asaf Ali the Mayor of Delhi who garlanded the Duke.

Shot of Nehru introducing his daughter Mrs. Indira Gandhi to the Duke.

Several shots of the Duke meeting the British High Commissioner Mr Malcolm Macdonald.

Shot made from a high angle show the Duke surrounded by cameramen.

Shot of Duke and Nehru walking together.

Shot of Duke taking the General salute. The Band in foreground playing ' GOD SAVE THE QUEEN'

Roll 2 Continued....

Another shot of the Duke while taking the salute. The Union Jack and the Indian Flag were flying on both his sides.

( Earlier to this in roll one there is a shot of both these flags flying at the airport)

Shot framed through the lined up Guard Of Honour with Duke in the middle. The Guard were changing the Arms.

Shot of the Duke inspecting the Guard of Honour.

Close shot of the Duke inspecting the Guard of Honour.

Shot of the Duke meeting the Diplomats who had lined up at the Air Force Station In New Delhi. ( 2 or three shots )

Roll 3

Shot of the Police pushing the crowd in a street of Delhi.

Long shot of the crowd which was practically blocking the road.

Long Shot of the Car bringing the Duke and Nehru arriving... the shot is continued.... till the car comes close to the camera and moves away towards the President's House.

Rear angle shot with President's House in the background shot of the car procession going towards the House.

Shot of people who were clinging to the Iron bars of the gate of the President's House.

Shot of the ~~Entrance~~ President's House.

Shot of the Elephant on the main entrance gate with GRI monogram on it.

-----

THE END.

The film is being shipped within few minutes after the coverage. Please pardon any typing errors due to rush.

Shall await your kind report on this coverage.

Camera : V.PARKASH, NEW DELHI

STORY : HRH THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH AT THE INAUGURATION OF THE 46th INDIAN SCIENCE CONGRESS IN NEW DELHI.

21st January.

Mostly Interiors with Artificial Lights. Tri X. 350. ✓

The 46th INDIAN SCIENCE CONGRESS for which many delegates have arrived from several parts of the world was inaugurated in New Delhi by Prime Minister Nehru. H.R.H. Prince Philip is leading the UK delegations of Scientists.

There were more than 4,000 Indian Scientists present when the Procession led by Chancellor of Delhi University, Nehru and the Duke in Academic robes arrived at the Delhi University where the Congress is taking place. It will last for several days.

Mr. Rao, the Vice Chancellor of the Delhi University greeted the delegates and in inaugurating the Science Congress Mr. Nehru complimented the British, the US and USSR Scientists but at the same time he reminded them that too much of success of the skies might lose their hold of the earth. He praised the Duke for having come to participate in the Science Congress and admired the interests of the Duke in the development of the Scientific Research.

Dr. A.L. Mudaliar who has been elected as the ~~king~~ President of the 46th Indian Science Congress read his presidential address. (The time is too short to catch the plane, copies of the speech of Mudaliar and Rao are enclosed.)

Roll. I.

Several shots of the delegates from various countries as they were seated on the dais and talked to each other.

Shot of the procession with Vice President Dr. Radhakrishnan (white turban) Mr. Nehru and the Duke in academic robes arriving for the inauguration ceremony of the Congress.

Shot of Nehru and the Duke and Vice President of India taking their seats on the dais.

Shot of scientist crowd seated in the main ~~max~~ tent where the congress is taking place. (campus of Delhi University)

Shot of Dr. Rao, Vice Chancellor of Delhi University addressing. (Speech copy enclosed)

Various shots of the crowd and invitees. Shot of the Duke seated on the dais. Delhi's Mayor Mrs. Asaf Ali is on his right and Vice President Radhakrishnan and Nehru on his left.

Roll No. 2.

Shot of Mr. Nehru addressing the Congress.

Shot of Mudaliar president of the Congress addressing.

Shot of Duke clapping at the end of the speech.

Shot of the Duke being officialy ~~in~~ welcomes at the dais of the Congress meeting. Duke Shaking hands with Nehru.

Shots of other delegates being welcomes and shaking hands with Nehru and Vice President Radhakrishnanan.

Shot of the sign Indian Science Congress.

Shot of the Procession coming out of the main gate.

Another shot of the procession going towards the univarsity building.

THE END.