

SUN VALLEY GETS UNEXPECTED SNOWFALL!

And talking about weather, this down-to-earth "white stuff" was hardly predicted out Sun Valley, Idaho way. It's the amount of snow which makes news. They got four feet in 24 hours after practically having abandoned the idea of a big snowfall this season. And so everyone is in "orbit" amid the crystal-like "satellites" - and if you think that's not important - ask any skier! And when we asked for comments: "Get me out's here!"