

MOTOR RACERS USE ICE TRACK.

The frozen Zell Am See, near Salzburg was given over to ski-joring and motor racing in the Professor Porche Memorial meeting. Porche designed the sports car, famous throughout Europe.

Ski-joring began in Norway, modestly with horses doing the pulling. That cars have improved the sport no one will dispute. Certainly not the horses. Next event to excite the spectators - very pretty some of them - was a car race, with ace drivers hitting up fantastic speeds.

The race was won by Otto Mathis, of Innsbruck. As he has only one arm, his performance was doubly creditable.
