

MARGOT HOME AND SAFE.

It was better than fiction at London Airport. Back only two days after release from Panama City jail, Dame Margot Fonteyn came home. Self possessed as though she were taking a bow the great ballerina prepared to face another ordeal, meeting the Press. All wanted to know whether she and her husband, Dr. Roberto Arias, had been in any plot to overthrow the Government of Panama? No thriller writer ever thought up anything so fantastic, yet the Panamanian authorities swear its true. Anyhow they arrested Dame Margot. Roberto was formerly Panama ambassador in London. Where he is now, was not known when we took these pictures.

Dame Margot faced the Press hordes, as she had done the day before in New York. Now see how to deal with the Press. To every question say, "I won't answer that".
