

JEEP + 'COPTER NEW ARMY RECRUIT!

This is a helicopter? Well, not exactly. It's a jeep? Well, not quite that, either. It's kind of a mixture of both - more 'copter than jeep. At least a jeep can't do this.

The idea behind this radical new vehicle, which has been designed for the Army, is there should be a tactical aircraft that can skim all kinds of terrain while offering the smallest possible target. The answer, an aerial jeep; two small rotor-props set within its body. An airborne carrier with no visible means of support!
