

BERLIN POLICE GIVE BIG SHOW.

100,000 capacity-filled the Berlin Olympic Stadium for the most popular show of the year, by the police of the West German part of the Capital. Chief spectator was West Berlin's best known citizen, the Mayor, Willy Brandt.

Evidently there's no place in this police force for anybody who's not 100% fit. And if the uniformed branch are baffled, there's the four-legged department to help out.

If there's any rough stuff, the police have a bit of Judo up their sleeves. For anybody taking up a life of crime, Berlin is NOT the place.

For the finale, a message much to the liking of the crowd, Berlin Stays Free.
