

CINEMA GIVES OLD FOLKS CHRISTMAS
TREAT.

The State cinema at Leith remembered those who are too often forgotten, the old-age pensioners. On Christmas morning twelve-hundred-and-fifty of them were welcomed by Willie Merriless, Chief Constable of Lothians and Peebles Constabulary. The old people saw a film and had a free gift each. So a day that ought to be gay for all, but some years is joyless for lonely old folk, was turned into a Christmas to be remembered. By contributing £120, Willie Merriless made sure of a florin for each member of the special audience.

They all had shortbread and biscuits. And of course there was the show itself. So 1,250 old people, who gave many years of good service in the past, were wished a happy Christmas, as good Leithers deserve.

SPECIAL FOR LEITH ONLY.
