

BABIES ARE NO TROUBLE.

Don't hesitate to have a baby. They're no trouble at all. Luxury for every guest is the rule at the newly opened Infants Hotel in Hamburg, run by a doctor for mothers at work, mothers at the bridge club, or just mothers who want to go shopping. And it's so very clean and hygienic, there's a danger that when baby goes home he'll say, Here, what's all this mess?

As the hotel is doctor-controlled there's no extra charge for a routine check-up.

Sunlamps ensure that healthy glow all over usually seen only on summertime babies. In fact there's so much, the infants will get the idea that they're very important young people.

Meals are served on the dot. They never have to howl for it. So let's put out the lights and go to sleep.

Hungary goes one better. Everything done by automation. Babies completely cared for, all without human aid.
