

SHAH BACK FROM HONEYMOON.

With his new, 21-year-old Queen, the Shah of Persia visited the Farabee Hospital when he returned to Teheran after his honeymoon. The hospital is almost a show place, an example of a Persian stride forward in modernizing the country. It specializes in eye complaints and mainly serves the poorer people. For the patients it was a day to be remembered. All Persians are curious to see the young Queen and hope that perhaps she and the Shah will be together at many public functions. Above all, they hope that Queen Farah Diba will eventually provide a male heir to the Throne.
