

SCOTTISH RAG.

From Kelvingrove Park to City Centre 4,000 Students made up a monster procession in aid of Glasgow Charities. There were sixty floats in the parade, and a lot of hard work and imagination went into the making of them. When the students of Glasgow University organise their annual charity they don't do things by halves.

For years the students have given the lie to the legend that Scotsmen shell out reluctantly. Certainly the yield on past Charity days has been handsome. And today, despite the downpour they were heading for a record take.

You have to wear your best clothes when you beg from the Lord Provost. With the Lady Provost and in the company of the lovely Charities Queen, Hilda Taylor, the First Citizen gave a generous lead.

Glasgow made sure it would be a great day for the Scots.
