

SPORT IN GERMANY.

Alain Giletti, three times European Skating Champion, used every trick in the bag and went all out to win the title again. In the Free Style exhibition he was dazzling and faultless.

By the judges' unanimous verdict Giletti was champion again.

In a Free Style display of another sort, Hans Braumler and Marika Kilius simply walked away with the Pairs title. Hans is 18; his pretty partner a year younger. They won the European Championship at Davos last year, and they were going to bend over backwards to retain the title here at Garmisch.

Ending on a jive note, Hans and Marika clinched the matter and made the title theirs for the second time.

The German Cross Country Championship drew a big field of crack riders to Selingersra. They had to lap the tough track for a total distance of sixteen miles still mounted, preferably.

Carry the bikes, is allowed where the going is absolutely impossible.

All things considered the speed was amazing. The first man home, Rolf Wohlshohl, completed the 16-miles in two-and-a-half minutes under the hour.
