THE BUTLIN WALK.

There was a big early morning crowd at Land's End. Billy Butlin and his wife, and of course (because we're everywhere), Pathe News. And almost sprinting along the home stretch came little Jimmy Musgrave, the 38-year-old Doncaster glassworker. Sixteen days ago, Jimmy and more than 700 others left John o'Groats. Most of them fell by the wayside. But here was Jimmy, going on to the dais with Billy Butlin, to receive the very welcome reward of £1,000.

Nearly an hour-and-a-half later arrived John Grundy. He's 26, twelve years younger than Jimmy Musgrave. Nevertheless he had to be content with second place. His cheque was for 500 pounds. At one point on the previous day Grundy was only two-and-a-half miles behind the leader, but he hadn't got the stamina of the Doncaster man.

Bravo Jimmy Musgrave. He couldn't stay. He wanted to get back to work. What a hero!
