

TUG-O'-RIVER.

An old custom was revived at Market Harborough; costume to match. Tug-o'-war contests with a difference; a dunking for the losers. All the local heavy talent was mobilised, at a bob-a-head entrance fee. Proceeds to the World Refugee Year Fund.

Born comedians had the time of their lives.

The girls had a go too.

The River Welland isn't the Mississippi, but it's deep enough to make the rest of the afternoon uncomfortable.

He belongs to the school for scoundrels.

A cup was presented to the one team that didn't get pulled in, so they went in voluntarily. At this time of the year it's dangerous to get wet, unless you wet it soon afterwards. They did...
