SHEEP SHED THEIR WOOLIES

✓ Springtime in Western Canada means it's time for the big move to mountain pastures. As they get set to leave this sheep ranch in British Columbia, the herd is traveling with an expanded population. It's traveling, that is, if we can get everyone up on all fours. Ah, now we're all set -- except for one more thing..... It's so much more comfortable to travel light. This is great! (Just hope the nights are warm.) These woolly mementoes will keep their memory treasured while they're gone.
