

PRINCESS HOME.

How pleasant it is to see them home again; Princess Margaret and Mr. Antony Armstrong Jones, home from their honeymoon in the Caribbean, and almost bringing the West Indian sunshine with them.

They must have been a little sorry to say goodbye to Britannia, but even idyllic honeymoons come to an end, and how good to return to England in the height of summer; an exciting new life awaiting them.

There was no delay at Portsmouth. They were greeted and wished goodbye by the Lord Mayor and Admiral Sir Manley Power, Commander in Chief, Portsmouth. The London train was waiting. The very happy Princess and her husband joined the Royal Family - reunion at Windsor.
