PRESENTATION TO GHANA.

A new Republic is born - and the Parliament of Ghana receives a good-will present from the British Government to mark the occasion; a set of furniture and other equipment for the Cabinet Room which is an exact replica of its equivalent at No.10 Downing Street,

Lord Hailsham, leader of the British delegation to Ghana's republican celebrations, hands over the gift with the good wishes of Premier Macmillan and his colleagues. Ghana's Finance Minister K.A. Gbedemah accepts on behalf of his colleagues.

When we think of two or three other places in Africa, it's good to see that Britain can stay friends with people she once ruled.
