

MEET MISS GREAT BRITAIN.

Of the 43 lovely girls contesting the title, MISS GREAT BRITAIN, at Morecambe, the judges were getting down to a short list. And just how, from such a bevy of beauty, they pick the best, even Adam Faith and John Hanson must have been puzzled to know. Rosemarie Frankland, of Lancaster, is only 17. From Heswell, Anne Thelwell. She's a famous Northern beauty, in the running wherever she enters. With the prestige of being Beauty Queen at New Brighton quite recently was Joan Boardman, of Wallasey. Eileen Sheridan, heat-winner at Southend, comes from Walton on Thames. Her beautifully distributed 36-22-36 so impressed the judges that they awarded her first prize.

Beauty's always been a jey for ever, and no girl could hold a candle to Venus, before disarmament handicapped her. Now, for Eileen, a trophy and a thousand pounds.

Olympic Games. Final, Women's hundred-metres Free-style. In Lane Four the great Dawn Fraser of Australia, winner at Melbourne four years ago, and world-record holder for this distance. Britain's hope, Natalie Steward, in Lane Three.

Nearing the halfway mark. And touching first by inches, is the American star Chris von Saltza. But what Lane Four. Dawn's terrific turn takes her to the front, where she means to stay.

Equalling her own world record of 61.2 seconds, Dawn Fraser wins. Chris von Saltza second, and in third place, Natalie Steward of Great Britain.

The Gold Medal for Dawn, the Silver for Chris, and the Bronze for Natlie.

A stupendous performance by Dawn Fraser; and from Britain, congratulations to Natalie Steward.
