GOLD STAR FOR BRABHAM.

60/73.

The British Racing Drivers Club met to honour the top driver of the whole world, Jack Brabham. There was no sign of him so far, but watch that paper screen at the end of the ballroom. Enter the star, driving a Cooper.

Brabham is world champion for the second year running so the motor racing fraternity awarded him their Gold Star. Mike Talyer, who injured his neck when racing, and John and Charles Cooper, designers of the famous car, were among the better known folk present.

Ron Flockhart, Brian Lister and the assembled company saw Jack receive the Gold Star from Mike Couper, one of the Club's Vice Presidents. There was a wire of congratulations from the Club's President in Chief, the Duke of Edinburgh. Jack Brabham's earned it all.
