

THE SHAH GETS AN HEIR.

Thousands in Teheran and throughout Persia rejoice that at last the Shah has a son. The Queen's chief doctor told crowds outside the hospital that mother and baby were doing well. One of the first messages of congratulation came from ex-Queen Soraya, who was divorced because she failed to give the Shah an heir. Queen Farah Diba was more fortunate. The baby weighed eight pounds, eleven ounces.

The parents were very happy indeed, back at the Palace. The Shah was first married 21 years ago. A long wait for the much needed son.
