TWO WHEELERS IN NEWS.

The Cycle and Motor Cycle show at Earls Court drew record crowds on opening day. Ariel displayed a cutaway model, for everybody to see what lies behind that road-performance.

Japan's 50 c.c. Honda goes 250 miles to the gallon. But there's still a large market for pushbikes, overseas as well as at home.

From the Lambretta stable comes the Trobike, claiming to be the smallest, cheapest, simplest and safest machine of its kind. Want to go afloat? Then the Canterbury sidecar only has to be taken to the water. Millions of young shavers long for the day when they'll be old enough to take to the saddle and do a ton. Very 'eye-taking' is the Wankel Rotary engine, now being made by the famous N.S.U. firm in Germany. Cheaper, lighter and longer wearing than ordinary engines, the Wankel may be adapted for motorcycle use before long.
