ALGERIA IN FERMENT.

A mob of 5,000 strong turned the Algiers Armistice Day ceremony into a riot. They shouted, "De Gaulle to the gallows", stoned the police and did all they could to show how much they hate the French President's proposal of an Algerian Republic linked with France.

Algerian dissatisfaction with the former Government brought De Gaulle to power. What irony, if, like all his predecessors, he finds no solution, and is brought down for the same reason.

Before the day ended, more than 100 were injured, half of them police. World peace itself could be imperilled if the Algerian situation got completely out of hand.
