

HOBBIES, MEN AND BOYS.

BMA House staged an exhibition of Doctors Hobbies. Most of GP's tell us they hardly get a minute to themselves. The prisoner, a work by Doctor McCluakey, was one of scores of exhibits proving that many of our medical advisers find time for hobbies somehow. An ingenious example portrays nursery stories in seashells. Next, a pioneer wire recorder.

A seven cylinder two-stroke aero engine and a microscope. And what about this for a pocket watch radio?

A Petit point evening bag by Dr. Rankine won second prize.

Staff attraction, a full size monoplane, by Dr. Roche, of Rutherglen. Dr. J.L. Jones of West Mersea, designed a revolutionary motor-boat.

Mr. Antony Armstrong Jones undertook his first public engagement alone, for the National Challenge Trophies Competition for Schools' Photography. The distinguished visitor had a word of encouragement for David Martin, 11, Junior Trophy winner; and deservedly for a striking picture. It vividly portrays the atmosphere of junior school Rugby. Mr. Armstrong Jones was guest of honour at the luncheon, when he awarded the prizes. The Senior one went to 17-year-old Richard Coleman, of Gresham's School in Norfolk.

Then David Martin received his award.

Another 11-year-old was Peter Heatherington, from Dame Allan's School, Newcastle-on-Tyne. For all present it was a new experience to see a famous photographer being photographed.
