

SPURS V. SUNDERLAND.

Sunderland set the game going at Tottenham, facing the white shirted Spurs in the 6th Round replay. Which of these great sides would meet Burnley in the semi-final? 65,000 fans jammed White Hart Lane for the thrill of finding out. Wakeham tipped the ball around the side.

That encouraged Spurs to try again. White's shot hit the crossbar; another escape for Sunderland. But there was no holding Tottenham. Jones passed to Allen. Goal for Spurs.

Five minutes later the immaculate John White sent Jones away and that wandering right-winger put in a hard shot which Wakeham parried, only for the ball to go to centre-forward Smith. He made no mistake.

A minute from half-time. Spurs struck again. The Mercurial Jones passed to Dyson, and the outside left got goal Number 3.

Second half. Three down, Sunderland were still full of fight, as any team has need to be at White Hart Lane. Brown was safe in Spurs goal.

Skipper Danny Blanchflower marshalled the wonder-team perfectly, initiating another attack. Allan's centre earned a corner.

It was Dyson who got goal number 4.

Sunderland tried their hardest to stay in the game. However, they were now only a shadow of the team that drew with Tottenham at Roker Park. They'd encountered Spurs at their best, and where is the team that could survive such a meeting. Jones was on the warpath again.

He passed to left half Mackay and there was another goal. Spurs won, 5-nil.
