MEET BABY GIRAFFE

Maggie is the proudest giraffe in England. The reason - her three-weeks-old baby; the two of them making a picture that Pathe News and all the still photographers in Fleet Street had to have. But they wouldn't always look the right way at the right time.

This kind of giraffe is a native of Kenya, but lives and breeds quite happily in Britain. Several have been born here at Whipsnade, several at the London Zoo. And what pleasing animals they are.
